1.0. Overview

Providence Gardens was designed and is currently under development by the CH&PA. This scheme, as conceptualized, targets the Guyanese diaspora with the objective of providing an opportunity for them to take up residence in a well-structured residential setting, particularly in the case of those in the retirement stage of their careers. The scheme has a total of 538 house lots. Standard lot sizes range from 6000 to 8000 sq ft, and priced from \$4M to \$7M respectively. In addition to these standard lot sizes, there are larger and some smaller lots within each section of the scheme. These lot are called ‘hatched lots’ and the prices for these lots are calculated using the following formula: cost of lot/standard lot size = Sq ft. rate of section, then Sq ft rate of section times approximate lot size. For example a 11,500 Sq ft lot in the 7M section should be $7,000,000/8000 \text{ Sq ft.} = \875 rate . Then, $875 \times 11,500 = \$10,062,500$. This lot would be sold for 10M. Qualitative issues, such as swamped land, or large drain(s) through the lands would usually also be considered.

2.0. The policy context

The policy was to make lots in the scheme available to remigrants and overseas-based Guyanese wishing to return, or those who have already returned to Guyana to live. Lots were also made available to persons desirous of having a vacation home in Guyana.

More specifically, the scheme caters for overseas-based Guyanese that are residents or non-residents in the diaspora, this includes persons who may be living abroad, but do not hold any legal status in their country of stay. This particular group would not be able to benefit from a regular house lot allocation, since the land allocation policy states that a person residing out of Guyana for more than 183 days will be considered a non-resident of Guyana and therefore not eligible for a ‘regular’ house lot.

Note: The meaning herein ascribed to the word ‘remigrant’, based on public pronouncements by former Minister, Irfaan Ali, is interpreted as:

- a. The remigrant Guyanese who is resuming residence in Guyana as the country of domicile (this was, however, never formalized with any agreed-on procedure between CHPA and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs); and
- b. The overseas-based Guyanese who display a pattern of frequent visits requiring short or long-term residence in the country and who have a desire to ultimately return permanently.

3.0. Planning

Background:

Parcels 85-87, Pln. Providence also known as the re-migrant scheme or Providence Gardens is a Government of Guyana (GoG) Housing Scheme conceptualized to cater for overseas-based/remigrant Guyanese. The scheme which forms part of the East Bank Development Project can be accessed from Mocha Arcadia main access road and is immediately bounded to the north and east by Providence Phase III GoG housing scheme, to the south by the Mocha Arcadia main access road and to the west by private housing schemes. There are other GoG housing schemes such as Herstelling (Phases A, B and C), Peter’s Hall, Perseverance and private housing schemes within close proximity of the re-migrant scheme. (See map below)

The scheme comes under the jurisdiction of the Eccles/ Ramsburg Neighbourhood Democratic Council (NDC)

Details of the Area:

The re-migrant scheme comprises approximately 128 acres of land with a lot yield of 552 lots based on the design layout. The scheme was divided into four blocks that catered for four pre-arranged lot sizes. The lots were arranged as follows:

	Block A	Block B	Block C	Block D
Approximate Plot size	6,000 sq. ft.	6,500 sq. ft.	7,000 sq. ft.	8,000 sq. ft.
Number of lots	187	168	98	99

This design was concretized by way of a cadastral survey which now serves as the official subdivision of the area. Based upon this survey plan as executed by R.K.V Persaud, Sworn Land Surveyor and recorded as Plan No.55281 total of 538 lots are provided (Figure 3). These lots are shown below.

Plot size	6,000 sq. ft.	6,500 sq. ft.	7,000 sq. ft.	8,000 sq. ft.
Number of lots	179	168	89	98
Reserve sites	1	1	1	1
Total lots	180	169	90	99
	538

Design Considerations:

- Topography – relatively flat area of land posed no topographical constraints to design;
- Connectivity - the site has two points of access from the Mocha Arcadia main access that provides connections with the site in its local setting. Future access is also proposed at the northern portion of the scheme through the now Greenfield Park road.
- Land use arrangement – the Scheme was designed as single use (residential) scheme, inclusive of open recreational spaces and reserve site for future community use.

Design pattern:

The design pattern adopted was an attempt move away from the traditional grid-iron pattern to a more varied or mixed pattern reflecting a combination of:

- Loops
- Cul-de-sacs

The general idea is to create opportunities whereby areas can have their own unique identity as a cluster of lots thus allowing for more cohesiveness as spatial/community units, as distinct from the monotony of a strictly grid-iron pattern.

The open space strategy:

- Dispersed green spaces – a dispersed rather than centralized disposition of open spaces (green areas). Four reserve sites were provided for in the design layout. These are strategically located along the main access road at the intersection of each block and form a distinct landscape feature for the main access road within the Scheme. They also allow opportunity for the positioning of key community landmarks.

The housing type and density:

- Provision for high-income housing;
- Plot size: an approximate minimum size of 6,000 sq. ft.
- One dwelling unit per lot.

Traffic and transport:

Apart from the main access road, the area is serviced by a series of internal roads that provide for easy circulation within the scheme. The hierarchy of roads is as follows:

- The major road (main access road) – an eighty foot road foot road reserve to move traffic into and around the area. The median is to be used for landscaping;
- Local secondary road (internal access road) – a sixty-four foot road reserve to move traffic within the area with connections from the major road;
- Minor roads – fifty-four feet road reserves width. Cul-de-sac are included in this classification;
- Footpaths – twenty-four feet reserves to be provided along road reserves and at strategic points to accommodate pedestrian movement along roadways and from major roads to internal roads. Footpaths serve to break the monotony characteristic large, long residential blocks of land and ensure the continuity of pedestrian movement throughout the area.

Note:

The use of sidewalks (footpaths within defined road reserves):

Although sidewalks are catered for in the typical cross-sections of road reserves, these are never developed. It is proposed that these sidewalks be developed to provide safe walkable areas for pedestrians.

Community/ institutional facilities

The area was designed with no specific community facility in mind. However, reserve sites were provided to cater for any future community use that may be required as the community develops. Based on demographic information of allottees at the time no institutional community facility requiring a large catchment area was provided.

4.0. The application Process

In July 2010, an online application system was implemented by CH&PA's MIS department, which enabled Guyanese from around the world to apply without having to physically be in Guyana. To date, approximately 2000 remigrants/overseas-based Guyanese have applied.

The eligibility criteria determined by the CHPA is:

- You must be Guyanese
- You must be 21 years and over
- You must not be the owner of any property in Guyana.
- You must be ready to commence building within six months after allocation (please note that this is not heavily enforced due to the lack of infrastructure within the scheme)

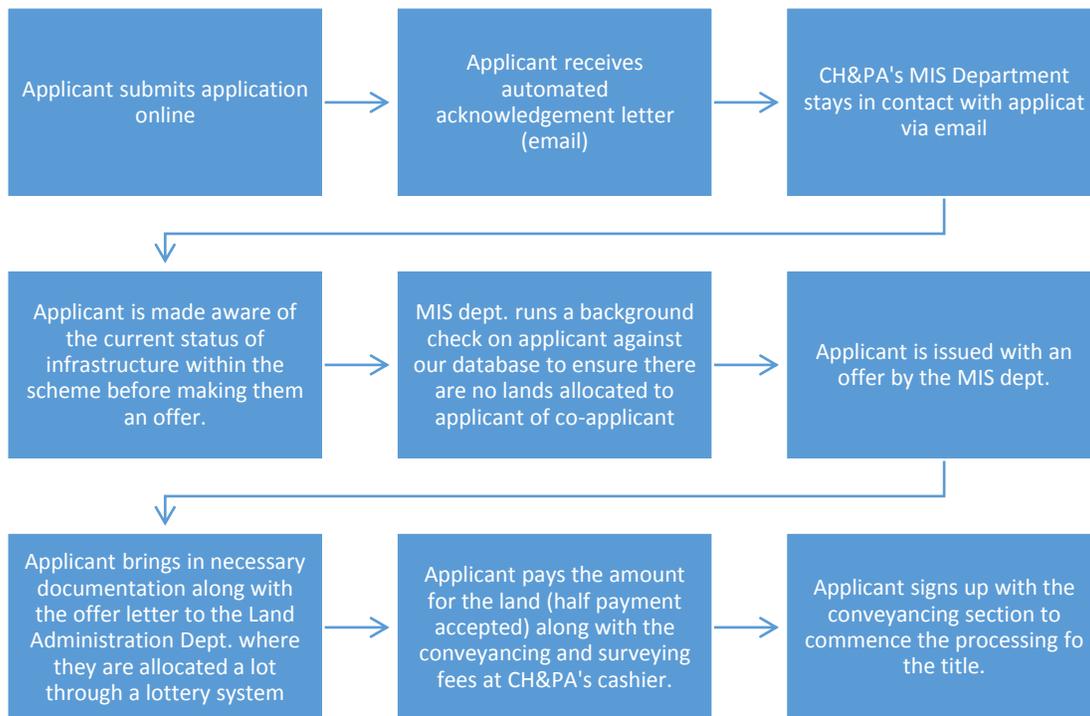

The application process explained:

1. Applicant submits application online – applicant creates a user account and fills out a remigrant/overseas-based Guyanese application on the CHPA's website (www.chpa.gov.gy). (currently disabled since the program has been put on hold)
2. Once the applicant successfully submits an application, an automated acknowledgement letter is sent to their email.
3. Applicants following-up on their applications would email the authority on email addresses - 'info@chpa.gov.gy' or 'oa@chpa.gov.gy'. An MIS staff would respond to same.
4. Since the scheme is still under development, applicants would be made aware of same when expressing interest into the scheme.
5. If the applicant is interested in a lot, given the current state of development within the Providence Gardens, the MIS Dept would run a background check against the local database to ensure no lands were allocated to the applicant.
6. MIS department would generate an offer letter based on the application, which would then be emailed (or given to the applicant). This came about in July 2011, at the second

International Building Expo, where a one stop shop was held specifically to allocate remigrant/overseas-based Guyanese house lots. These applicants were invited to attend the event via email – by way of an offer letter. The management team requested that the MIS department generate and email out offer letters in bulk. This was a technical bulk mailing exercise, which required the correct letter to reach each applicant. Approximately 400 offers were made and sent out via email on this occasion. Since then, this stage of the process remained the functional responsibility of the MIS department.

7. Applicant brings in the offer letter along with the required documentation (Identification Card/Passport, Birth Certificate/Naturalization Documentation, Marriage Certificate (if applicable) and an Affidavit stating Non-Ownership of Property in Guyana) to the Land Administration. The applicant then selects a lot through a lottery system. Note that both local and foreign addresses were accepted, since a number of persons would have already returned permanently. Also note that both local and foreign IDs were accepted since a number of persons would not have resided overseas legally.
8. Applicant pays the cost of the lot, as well as the conveyancing and surveying fees.
9. The Land Administration Department prepares the allocation letter and agreement of sale documents and the applicant signs up with the conveyancing section to commence the processing of their Title.

See below for a process map of the application process:

5.0. The marketing strategy adopted

One stop shop at the international building expo

In July 2011, at the second International Building Expo, where a one stop shop was held specifically to allocate remigrant/overseas-based Guyanese house lots. These applicants were invited to attend the event via email – by way of an offer letter.

Trade and Tourism Exposition – New York

An invitation was extended by the Ministry of Tourism and Commerce to participate in a Trade show and Tourism Exposition in the United States of America under the theme ‘Re-Discover Guyana Home’ from the 28th to the 30th of June, 2013 at the Centennial College.

The Agency was represented by two staff members of the Land Administration and Conveyancing Department. This event provided the opportunity for the Central Authority to primarily sensitize and disseminate information regarding the Providence Gardens scheme to the patrons who visited the booth. The cadastral plan of the scheme was displayed for visitors to view and brochures and booklets were distributed.

The patrons who visited the booth expressed interest in acquiring lots in the scheme and communicated that it was an excellent initiative for Guyanese to be afforded the opportunity to own a home in Guyana.

At the culmination of the Exposition, the excess brochures were given to the Guyana Consulate to continue to distribute to the diaspora in the United States of America.

Online Brochure

The Providence Gardens brochure (see copy in appendix 3) was made available on the CHPA website (www.chpa.gov.gy). This brochure provided all of the information that prospective allottees would need to know.

CHPA did not push heavily to market the scheme because of the lagging infrastructure.

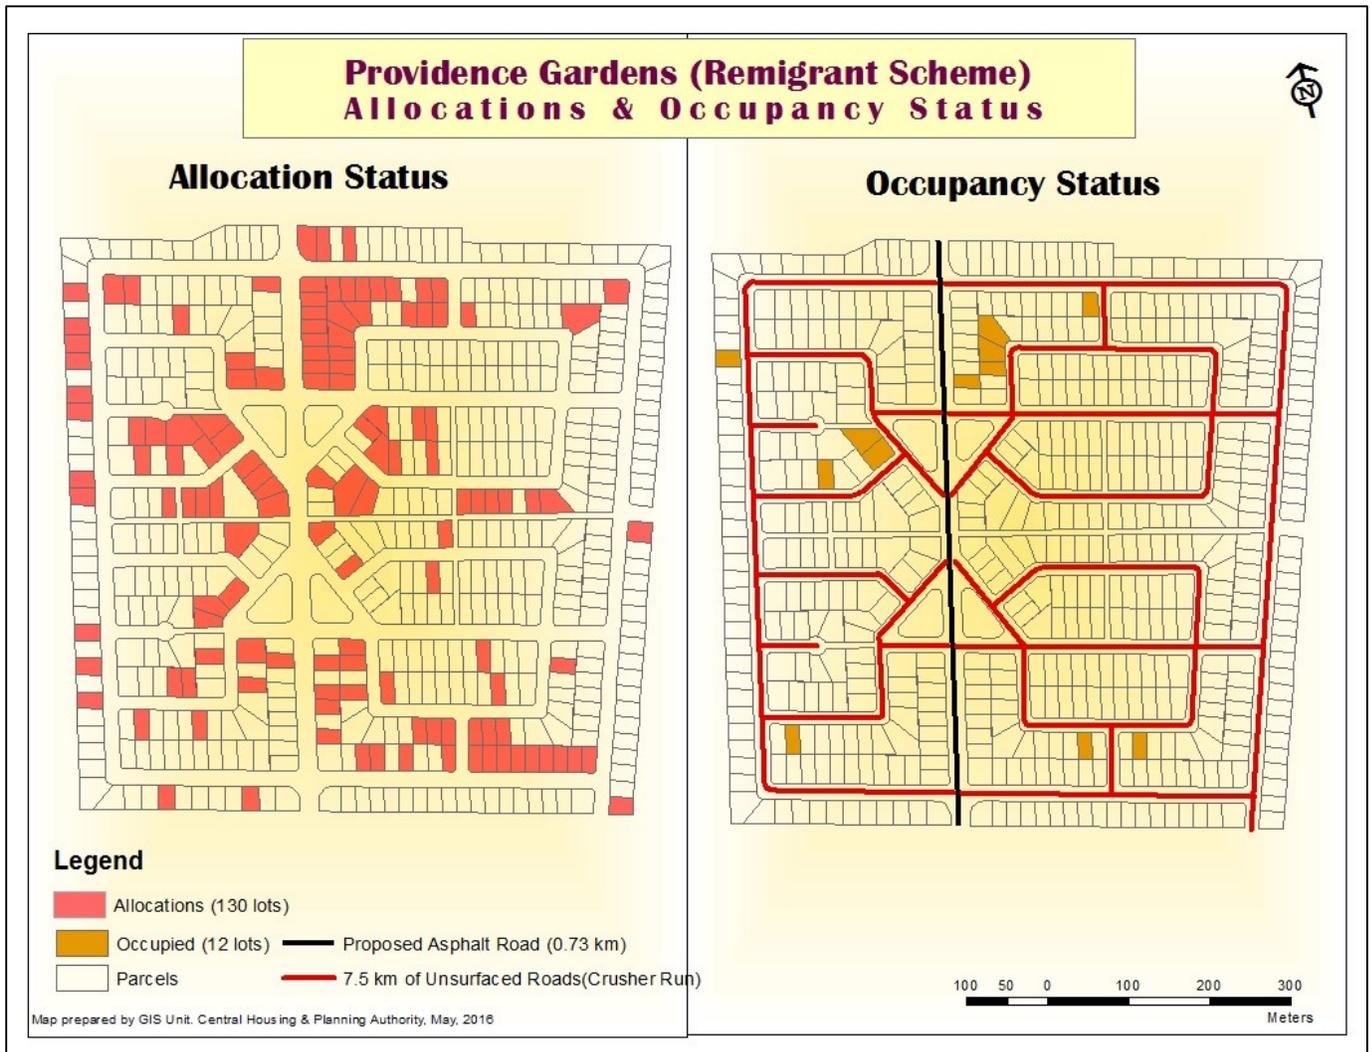

6.0. The allocation status
